Fifteen investor analysts heard details of Indonesia's potential and about Givaudan's plans for the country and the region from Givaudan CEO Gilles Andrier, Regional Head Fragrances Asia Pacific Ben Webb and Head of Flavours ASEAN Tansukh Jain. Analysts heard how Givaudan is well placed for growth and is investing in the country and the region to capture the opportunities. The Company's customer base is growing both regionally and locally, and building customer intimacy alongside this growth is crucial for continuing success.

Givaudan has been present in Indonesia since 1993 and has significantly invested in people and facilities in the country. In addition to the new centre in Jakarta, the Company manufactures liquids, powder blends, spray dry flavours and fragrance liquid compounds in Cimanggis (province of West Java). The Company employs a total of approximately 300 people in Indonesia.

Givaudan's Chief Executive Officer, Gilles Andrier said: "Indonesia is more and more a dynamic market for FMCG and provides high growth for both flavours and fragrances. Givaudan is well placed and is investing in Indonesia to capture this growth."
